SHORT TERM PROJECTS

- Continue Gender Neutral, push for more inclusive forms and banner, change signage on single stalled rooms
- Finish converting outside trashcans to recycling. This sort of stalled out, get it going again!
- Actually have records management, put everything online and search-able (push for this hard with records, help them do it (or do it myself)) Have a pilot program, and will be launching my own records online soon!
- Re-do the website. I hate the current one and it would take me a week or so to redo it. I will try to make sure we get a better site, before the end of summer. We need to finish this one.... We have a test website, but lets just say certain employees are really really slow.
- Better finances, fix the "above the line". More accountability.
- Continue to push for our pilot compost program at Sodexho. If we don't see action within the first quarter we should play some more aggressive tactics (we have a pilot program already setup, just waiting on our school...).
- Continue education and outreach for healthier, less meaty options for on-campus dining. We shall campaign for meatless Mondays, although I would never eliminate meat on Mondays at Sodexho. I was thinking great veggie options on Monday (we should always have better options) along with an education campaign.
- Work with RHA to fix a few things: 1) don't use student activity fee money for fundraisers (already told them, they said they won't, will watch and make sure). 2) use the semi-established RHA network to allow for better communication of concerns and thoughts; provide a better and more productive outlet for students.
- ecocup!
- NRT at Sodexho
- Make sure students use orgsync. We have almost branded it. I will be an admin. It should be good!
- Once Erin finishes her permaculture training, work for capital investments in permaculture
- continue to help Jason with Explore 'Denver, work with my artsy connections to allow for more student engagement. Work with my connections in HRE to get RA's and residents more involved. Just launched a placeholder website. We purchased a ton of tickets! It will be awesome. <http://exploredenver.org>
- DU SAC!

-make my student orgs that are political work to reduce apathy (continue DUSFBO momentum). this includes finishing a new site for political discourse and action on campus <http://dudems.com> should be good by the end of summer (as in a lot of content, regular bloggers, etc). Almost there, keep reading and posting!

-SOC has to be restarted from scratch pretty much. We have great new documents, and will have a whole new look and feel. Hopefully it won't suck.

LONG TERM PROJECTS:

-"fix" the Marry Reed Patio. Ask me about it, I have cool photos!

-Better oversight of student orgs (in a helpful manor, not the negative kind)

-Work to advertise policies better, both HRE and otherwise. Work with CCS to not suck, i.e. I would like to have our judicial branch share in the power and duty. The replacement for Dan will serve as a fresh slate to accomplish this.

-focus on per-capita price for events, especially those "above the line". advertise the expensive nature of some of the events that are not the most attended.
